

There's only one excuse for improving a successful package.

A more successful package. And more often than not these days, that means the convenience, product protection, extra shelf life and disposability of unit packaging, dosage or portion control. Will your product adapt to this new packaging concept? At a cost that will keep it competitive in the market? We have the capabilities to help you turn these little packages into big sales. Call us now. The Dow Chemical Company, Packaging Sales, Midland, Michigan.
